Officers began the presentation (attached as an appendix to the briefing note) by highlighting that the pledge was designed by children. Specifically, it focused around 7 key statements ranging from safety, physical, mental and emotional health, service and education accessibility, happiness, the quality of social workers, and inclusion and identity expression.

In considering the briefing note and presentation, the Board questioned officers, received responses, and discussed matters as summarised below:

- The negative impact of changing social workers and the benefit of advocates and independent visitors to making long term connections with children in care and care leavers.

24. Children Absent from Education

The Board considered a briefing note and presentation of the Director of Children and Education which provided an overview of the statutory requirements and approach taken in Coventry to children who are absent from education.

The Cabinet Member for Education and Skills, Councillor K Sandhu, prefaced the officer's presentation by recognising the wide-ranging but vital subject matter and the need to convey the Council's responsibilities and those of parents in an area where the law has changed recently.

The presentation attached as an appendix to the briefing note covered the following key areas:

- Statutory Guidance
- Education Partnership Priorities 2025/26
- Definition of children absent from education
- Responsibilities and staffing
- Strategic Approach
- Attendance
- Children Missing Education (CME)
- Permanent Exclusions (PEX) and Suspensions
- Behaviour Pathway
- Education other than at school (EOTAS)
- Elective Home Education (EHE)

In considering the briefing note and presentation, the Board asked questions, received responses and discussed a number of matters as summarised below:

- Increasing non-attendance since the pandemic, despite a slight decrease in non-attendance in the past year, and the safeguarding issues surrounding EHE.
  - Recognising working within the legal requirements of EHE and how increasing non-attendance may be due to an increase in non-attendance policies and data capture efforts.
  - Praise for Coventry's rigorous child protection efforts despite non-attendance challenges.
  - Tools such as visiting and inspecting homes and the EHE register.

- Engaging parents despite difficult non-attendance circumstances especially with SEND (Special Educational Needs and Disabilities) children having to attend doctor's appointments during school hours.
  - Adapting the Council's guidance scheme to allow for reasonable adjustments.
- The persistence of non-attendance 5 years on from the pandemic and shifting the focus on younger children to school readiness.
- The pupil referral process for suspensions and exclusions – changing from the extended learning centre to the CAPA (Corrective and Preventive Action) centre to deliver statutory provision but also reduce the trauma of school exclusions.
- The nation-wide trend of exclusions – CAPA utilising a new graduated model to turn the curve on exclusions leading to problems later on in life and recognising bad behaviour as a need not being met.
- School uptake of the attendance support offer and the traded service.
- Relationships with partner organisations such as the Home Office to track non-attendance when children leave the country.
- Supported preventative placements for temporary exclusions which when successful can lead to permanent managed moves.
- Difficulties caused when relationships breakdown between parents and schools and the effect this has on the child's attendance.
